BSB41415 Certificate IV in Work Health and Safety

Course Description

The BSB41415 Certificate IV in Work Health and Safety (WHS) caters for people working in a work health and safety (WHS) role, and they may or may not work under supervision. They may provide leadership and guidance to others and have some limited responsibility for the output of others. The qualification reflects the role of workers who apply a broad knowledge base and well developed skills in a wide variety of contexts and may include coordinators, advisors and facilitators.

Every year in Australia, many people get hurt at work – and some even die – yet a great number of these instances are avoidable. Once you attain a Certificate IV in Work Health and Safety, you'll have the knowledge and skills required to perform a range of different safety roles in the workplace or even to find employment in a field that's new for you.

Effective workplace health and safety lowers absenteeism, reduces risks, improves the wellbeing of employees and saves organisations money that can be better spent in other ways.

The Certificate IV in Work Health and Safety is the minimum requirement for health and safety management in the workplace. It's designed to enable you to participate in an organisation's WH&S Management Systems.

Career Pathways

This course has no formal entry requirements, and may be suitable for applicants looking to enter a new industry or workplace, however the preferred pathways include:

- Vocational experience in work health and safety roles without a formal qualification.
- BSB30715 Certificate III in Work Health and Safety or other relevant Certificate III qualifications

Possible career outcomes after completing the BSB41415 Certificate IV in Work Health and Safety may include:

- WHS Coordinator
- WHS Advisor

In addition to the learning resources provided, each student will be assigned a mentor who will provide individual attention and support to assist students to progress through the course. The mentor will be able to contextualise assessments to a specific industry to improve your employment outcome options.

Prospective students may discuss with IGTS prior to enrolment the possibility of substituting other units that may be more relevant to their industry requirements. This discussion will also include possible recognition of prior learning (RPL) that could be applied to the course.

Participants must have access to the following in order to complete their studies:

- Personal Computer or laptop with Internet
- Microsoft Office with Word, Excel, PowerPoint programs
- Adobe Acrobat Reader
- Email

Course Progression

If you decide to enrol in this course, your mentor will assess your training requirements, and advise you of the likely timeframe to complete this course. The timeframes to complete the work are based on what the mentor sees as reasonably acceptable in a workplace. You may apply to extend your enrolment if your course is not completed in 12 months, or may also complete the required assessments to achieve competency in each unit ahead of the dates listed on your training plan, and shorten the duration of your course.

Industry Customisation

IGTS doesn't just provide generic training. We customise our training based on the industry needs and experience of each student. Our assessment system allows you to complete your course using examples from your current workplace, other organisations you are involved with (not just a workplace), or if you are looking to change industries we can help with that too. Talk to us and see if this course is right for you.

How to apply?

Select the course and fill in online application form at www.igts.com.au along with required documents as mentioned in entry requirements.

Once we receive your application, one of our course consultants will get back to you within 48 hours, and will guide you how to proceed further.
